WELCOME TO NAPPANEE

Welcome to Nappanee, Indiana - a charming town in the heart of Northern Indiana that offers a range of unique and exciting experiences. Explore the legacy of Amish craftsmanship and agriculture at The Barns at Nappanee and step back in time to a nearly forgotten way of life. Immerse yourself in the history of the famous Hoosier Cabinet at Coppes Commons, a historic factory that now houses a variety of specialty shops and services. Be captivated by world-class entertainment and uplifting themes at the Round Barn Theater, a professional regional theater company. And unleash your inner artist at the Nappanee Arts Center, which provides a state-of-the-art facility for artists and features a nature trail with over 125 sculptures.

A Glimpse into the Past

Discover the rich history of Nappanee, Indiana, a town where the past shapes a vibrant present. From its Native American roots to its transformation into a thriving railroad town, Nappanee's story is a captivating journey through time. The town's beginnings can be traced back to the Mound Builders, followed by the Pottawatomi and Miami tribes. The arrival of white settlers in the 1830s led to Native American relocation and the foundation of the town.

Nappanee's growth was spurred by the B&O Railroad's quest in the 1870s to connect Sandusky, Ohio, and Chicago, Illinois. Completed in 1874, the railroad's development attracted industries such as sawmills, canning companies, and mobile home construction. Agriculture has also played a significant role in Nappanee's development, with crops including corn, wheat, onions, hemp, and mint contributing to the town's economic prosperity.

Incorporated as a city in 1925, Nappanee boasts a rich cartooning history, with native residents making lasting contributions to the field. The town's creative spirit is evident in its enduring artistic achievements. Nappanee's historical heritage is preserved through landmarks listed on the National Register of Historic Places, such as the Frank and Katharine Coppes House, Downtown Nappanee Historic District, and Stahly-Nissley-Kuhns Farm.

The Amish community has left a lasting impact on Nappanee, with roots in the 16th-century Anabaptist movement in Europe. Today, the town is surrounded by family farms of conservative Anabaptists, including Amish, Mennonites, and Schwarzenau Brethren. Experience Nappanee's rich history, where the past and present merge to create a vibrant, welcoming community. Uncover its unique attractions and celebrate the resilient spirit of its residents. A visit to Nappanee offers an unforgettable journey into the past.

The history of the Inn extends over a 180 year period. Originally built in 1840 by an Amish pioneer farmer from Wayne County Ohio, the house precedes the establishment of Nappanee in 1874. Christian Stahly built the home and the barn for his large family. Christian also built a family home at Amish Acres for his son, Moses. Amish Acres, today called The Barns at Nappanee, home of the Round Barn Theater. This property is on the list of National registries.

Go back in time with us to 1887 as we share the home of Frank and Katherine Coppes and the history they created in Nappanee, as 4 generations lived in this house. The Coppes House Bed and Breakfast, formerly known as the Victorian Guest House, reopened its doors in April of 2022. This house has an irregular plan, exhibiting elements of the Queen Anne style with original woodwork, stained glass windows, glass pocket doors and many original bathroom fixtures and tiles. The house continues to retain a high degree of integrity. It was added to the National Register of Historic Places in 1990. It is located in the Nappanee Eastside Historic District with parking on the original brick street.
